

Fund Objective

To achieve long term capital appreciation. There will be no limitations on the relative exposure of the portfolio to any asset class or geographical region, but the portfolio will typically have significant exposure to foreign equity and property securities.

Fund Universe

In order to achieve its objective, the investments normally to be included in the portfolio will comprise a combination of securities, exchange securities, stock including loan stock, financially sound listed property investments and participatory interests in portfolios of collective investment schemes in property shares and foreign collective investment schemes, assets in liquid form and any other securities which are considered consistent with the portfolio's primary objective and that the Act or the Authority may from time to time allow, all to be acquired at fair market value.

Manager CommentaryFund commentary

During October 2024, the nReach Capitis IP Worldwide Flexible Fund lost 0.45%, compared to the JSE Top40's 1.5% loss and the sector benchmark's 0.5% gain. The monthly decline (first monthly decline in 8 months), although disappointing, was less than peers holding similar fixed income exposure. We remain heavily invested in bonds and fixed interest instruments, which we continue to favour, having reached what we believe to be the top of the interest rate cycle. The fund will likely continue to benefit from this positioning in coming months, albeit potentially less than anticipated a month ago since the outlook for rate cuts in the USA has deteriorated in the past month.

The fund continues to benefit from exposure to "Low Volatility, High Predictability" assets and looks set to increase exposure above 20% before the end of 2024.

During the month the fund adhered to its policy objective and strategy.

Market commentary

During October local and international equities took a breather. The Top40 was down 1.5% while the S&P500 declined 1%. International bonds had a torrid time and the Ishares 20+ Year Treasury Bond ETF declined by 5.76%. This can be attributed to better than expected employment data in September and nervousness ahead of the USA presidential election. The stable economic data out of the USA has many market participants questioning the pace and size of the Fed's rate normalisation drive and expectations for large and frequent rate cuts have diminished. Local bonds also sold off in sympathy with the S&P South Africa Sovereign Bond 1+ Year index shedding 2.3%. The lesser decline in local bonds points (in our minds) to sustained underlying demand for South African debt and we remain bullish.

During October the S&P500 lost 1.5%, while the MSCI World Index lost 2%. Locally, the ZAR gave up 1.9% against the US$.
